Rachel's Vineyard hopes CSAF will increase retreat's reach By Matthew Davis

Rachel's Vineyard Executive Director Nancy Blom has seen abortion impact the lives of mothers, fathers, grandparents and young people in her work.

Blom, who had been involved in pro-life work as a young adult, felt a calling to help people looking for post-abortion healing after a pilgrimage to the Holy Land. She likened the work of Rachel's Vineyard to the story of the men lowering a sick man through the roof of a house to Jesus for healing.

"That's what we do on the weekend retreat," said Blom, a parishioner of St. Alphonsus in Brooklyn Center.

This year, the Catholic Services Appeal Foundation added Rachel's Vineyard to the ministries it funds in the Archdiocese of St. Paul and Minneapolis. Blom hopes that the additional CSA funding will help expand the availability of the retreat and widen people's awareness of it.

Rachel's Vineyard offers retreats for "all impacted by abortion loss," Blom said. The retreat can help both women and men, young and old, address the spiritual trauma caused by abortion.

Theresa Burke, a psychologist and founder of Rachel's Vineyard, had researched abortion's effects on women and men, finding that it often causes grief, shame and depression. Blom said it causes symptoms similar to post-traumatic stress disorder and can take decades or a lifetime to heal.

The Twin Cities' location is one of 350 Rachel's Vineyard sites worldwide. The ministry offered its first retreat in Minnesota in 1999. Since then, more than 500 people have attended, honoring the memory of about 890 aborted babies. The retreat is offered three times per year at the Franciscan Retreats and Spirituality Center in Prior Lake.

Retreatants are invited into a healing process following the "pattern of Jesus," as Blom described it. The retreat begins on Friday with a focus on the crucifixion. On Saturday, the focus is on Jesus in the tomb and Sunday's focus is the resurrection. Retreatants participate in guided meditation on sacred Scripture and group discussion.

Priests offer confession and celebrate Mass, but the retreat is open to Catholics and non-Catholics alike.

Still grappling decades after participating in his then-girlfriend's decision to abort, Bob Reynolds of Hudson, Wisconsin, went on the retreat in the early 2010s at the recommendation of a psychologist. He found that accepting God's forgiveness and developing a spiritual bond with the baby made difference.

Reynolds, a member of Bethel Lutheran in Hudson, said he now prays nearly daily for the intercession of the baby.

"We had a memorial for her. She's a huge part of my life now," he said.

Lisa Bursey, a board member of Rachel's Vineyard, also experienced a Rachel's Vineyard retreat as healing. She went in 2008 and found mercy and forgiveness in the experience.

"I went more because I was in need of going to confession, and I really hadn't gone to confession yet with regards to the whole experience," said Bursey, a parishioner of St. Michael in St. Michael. "I found that there was a lot more deeper, underlying issues that I didn't even realize and [was] able to work through those. That was the biggest challenge — being able to forgive myself for choices I made."

Bursey since has volunteered as a team member for the retreats before becoming a board member. Rachel's Vineyard provides resources for retreatants' ongoing healing, she said.

Blom hopes that CSAF funding will help make the retreat, which costs $350 to attend, more affordable to anyone who comes. That cost also doesn't cover the full expense of the retreats. The ministry relies on donations, and Blom, who works multiple jobs, makes only a small salary for her work.

However, "we don't deny anyone," Bursey said.

Message from the Pastoral Director

Dear Brothers and Sisters,

One of the things I frequently remind people about, when they inquire into Rachel's Vineyard, is the availability of after care. This is such an important dimension of what we do, and the RV team does so well at providing opportunities for those who have made retreats to connect with one another and with those who can counsel them, and to continue to share their experiences and deepen their healing.

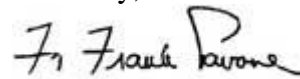

Among other things, one of the avenues some people take is to become pro-life advocates and get involved in the work of local or national pro-life groups. Pope Saint John Paul II referred to this option when he wrote in The Gospel of Life the following words addressed to those who have had abortions. After assuring them of the boundless mercy of God and urging them to entrust their children to him, he added,

"With the friendly and expert help and advice of other people, and as a result of your own painful experience, you can be among the most eloquent defenders of everyone's right to life" (EV #99).

This is the opposite of the attitude of so many of our opponents, who will try to assert that it is "hypocrisy" for those who have had abortions to urge others not to do so. But it is actually integrity to do so. Once we have repented, and seen the right path, we want to urge all people to take that path, and to avoid the pain that, sadly, we know so well.

Let's continue, then, to thank God for the gift of Rachel's Vineyard as it comes to so many not only in the powerful retreats, but the very effective after-care!

Sincerely,

Fr. Frank Pavone
Pastoral Director, Rachel's Vineyard Ministries
National Director, Priests for Life

A Lenten Appeal

During Lent, we are called to deeply reflect on ourselves and our spiritual life. This reflection may be difficult for someone who feels separated from God due to guilt and shame after an abortion. Please consider donating to Rachel's Vineyard. Your donation may make it possible for someone to find peace and re-connect with their Faith this Lent through a Rachel's Vineyard retreat.

Rachel's Vineyard Ministries is a non-profit organization. We are able to minister to those hurting after abortion through your contributions and prayers.
