Like many women who experienced abortion, Linda Peterson stuffed her negative feelings down for decades. And like some of those women, she eventually sought help through counseling. Having learned about abortion recovery from a nurse at a pregnancy center, she sought further assistance. Now, she helps women in similar situations heal from the trauma of abortion.

Sharing a buried secret

“I went into a Christian bookstore in Great Falls (Montana), trying to find a book that might help me,” Peterson said. “I had to finally break down and tell the clerk what type of book I was looking for. I was embarrassed.”

The clerk gave her the name of the community’s pregnancy center, and she went there seeking some brochures or other materials. She received much more when she met one of the center’s nurses and tried to explain what she was searching for.

“I started sobbing,” Peterson recalled. “I felt like I was 17 again. The nurse told me she had an abortion in her past, so I told her my story. I felt such a strong connection, I didn’t want to leave. I found somebody like me.”

The nurse provided Peterson with information on an upcoming Bible study for women with abortion experiences in their past. For twelve weeks her husband took her the 100 miles from Lewistown, where they lived, to Great Falls for the Forgiven and Set Free abortion healing program. She met other women like her, including two from Lewistown.

“We cried when we met,” Peterson said.
She admitted the program challenged her.

“I tried to quit four times,” she said.

Yet, Peterson persevered, and she discovered she and her husband bonded during the drives to and from Great Falls. And, she found forgiveness.

“I realized I hadn’t forgiven myself,” she said.

She continued her healing journey with a Rachel’s Vineyard retreat. The closest one she could find was in Denver. A brother lived there and Peterson recognized she had to share her abortion secret with him.

“I was so afraid to go, and I was so scared to tell him!” she said. “When I did, we both cried. It was so beautiful!”

Helping others heal

Peterson no longer kept her abortion secret. After completing both programs, a desire to bring Forgiven and Set Free to her town took root in her heart.

In 2016 she approached the then-director of Inspire Pregnancy Resource Center in Lewistown and volunteered to run the program. Peterson spent another twelve weeks traveling back and forth to Great Falls to learn to become a facilitator. Her dream to see other women healed from their abortion experience grew as a goal to host Rachel’s Vineyard sprouted.
“I knew Forgiven and Set Free needed to be in Lewistown and Rachel’s Vineyard needed to be in Montana again,” she said.

At that time, the retreat had not been in the state for eight years, Peterson added.

Once again, she traveled to learn how to facilitate such a retreat, flying to Denver several times for training. Now the director of Inspire, Peterson works to help women facing an unplanned pregnancy and women who have experienced abortion.

Since 2016, four Forgiven and Set Free twelve-week studies have been held in Lewistown, and in September 2018, the first Rachel’s Vineyard retreat was held in Great Falls. Another came to fruition last November.

Developing and operating an abortion healing weekend retreat takes not only a lot of planning, but also partnerships and supporters. For example, a priest or pastor must be part of the program as well as a counselor. Guided meditations take place; therefore, someone needs to fulfill that role. Additionally, many materials are needed, which can cost hundreds of dollars. Supporters and partners came alongside her.

“Catholic Social Services used to run the Rachel’s Vineyard retreats in Montana, and they provided the materials stored in a closet so we didn’t have to buy them,” Peterson said. “I found a counselor and a priest in Lewistown who supported the idea. Getting the word out was difficult, but I was able to do radio ads in some communities and my name and phone number is on the Rachel’s Vineyard website. We had women across the state show up.”
Thus far, with the two retreats, more than a dozen Montana women and one man have been impacted by Peterson returning the abortion healing retreat to the state.

“I had a man come up to me after I spoke at a church. He had experienced two abortions in his past, two different girlfriends had an abortion,” she said. “Like me, he drank his pain away. He came to the Rachel’s Vineyard retreat we had in November, and since then he’s given his testimony at his church. The things that happen at Rachel’s Vineyard are so amazing!”

Peterson isn’t done. She envisions holding two retreats a year, one in the spring and one in the fall, hoping more women will find healing and forgiveness.

“God has forgiven us, and we have to accept his forgiveness and forgive ourselves,” she said. “I gave God the pain (during her retreat) and he’s filled me with love.”

"He heals the brokenhearted and binds up their wounds."
~ Psalm 147:3

How a Church Bulletin Changed My Life
By Susan Swander

Sixteen years ago in October, 2003 my life was changed forever. I went to Mass at my local parish church and picked up a bulletin as I left. When I arrived home, I perused the bulletin with my cup of coffee. And, then I saw “it.”

It was a small box ad in the bulletin saying something like this:

“Suffering after an abortion? There is hope and healing available at a Rachel’s Vineyard Retreat. More confidential information is available at www.Rachelsvineyard.org or by calling this local number.”

That was the first time I had ever heard of the Rachel’s Vineyard ministry. Being a good computer junkie, I hopped on my laptop and went to that website. As I read through the site, I wept buckets of tears. It was the first time in 36 years that I had acknowledged my suffering after abortion. That website offered me hope. It took me a few days to make that phone call listed in the box ad. But I finally did – I knew it was time.

Several months later I attended a Rachel’s Vineyard retreat. What a remarkable, healing experience this weekend was. Words do not do justice to the love, compassion, and understanding I found during the retreat. Later I went through a mentoring process and became part of the team offering the retreats in Oregon. Rachel’s Vineyard gave me my life back.
Thank God for that tiny little box ad in the church bulletin. What power it held for me.

- That’s the short version of my story. If you want to learn more about my tumultuous life journey that led me to Rachel’s Vineyard, you can find it here.

[Susan, who has a Juris Doctorate Degree, has served on the Rachel's Vineyard retreat teams in Oregon, and is on the Board of Directors of Project Aurora. Project Aurora assists with mending lives affected by grief, guilt, and trauma after abortion. We sponsor and develop Rachel’s Vineyard Ministry retreat sites and healing resources in the State of Oregon. - KB]

A Message from the Pastoral Director

Dear Brothers and Sisters,

For decades, abortion advocates have said, “listen to the voices of women… respect women… trust women.”

But some abortion advocates didn’t follow that advice on the day of the March for Life when, at the Supreme Court, they tried to disrupt women of the Silent No More Awareness Campaign who were sharing their testimony of pain and healing after abortion.

We continued praying, singing, and sharing the testimonies nevertheless, even as several of these pro-abortion demonstrators stood right up in front of our platform.

Everyone could hear us, the crowd expressed strong support for us with their cheers and applause, and eventually the pro-abortion demonstrators left without incident.

It’s a revealing commentary, isn’t it, when those who support abortion think that the only way to advance their message is to shut down ours.

It just goes to show how weak their message is.

And it goes to show how shallow is any claim they make to “respect and listen to the voices of women.”

We’re editing the videos now and are eager to share them with you once they are ready, at www.AbortionTestimonies.com.

As I said to the crowd in DC at the conclusion of the Gathering, “You have honored these women and men of Silent No More by being here and listening to their stories. And I know you will continue to honor them as you spread their testimonies to others.”
The same was true the next day in San Francisco, at the Walk for Life West Coast, as we had a beautiful gathering on the Civic Center Plaza.

God bless all of you who, as part of our Rachel’s Vineyard Ministries, facilitate the healing that leads to these powerful testimonies! The good fruits of the work we all do together are more and more evident each day!

Sincerely,

Fr. Frank Pavone
Pastoral Director, Rachel’s Vineyard
National Director, Priests for Life

“As my sufferings mounted I soon realized that there were two ways in which I could respond to my situation—either to react with bitterness or seek to transform the suffering into a creative force. I decided to follow the latter course.”
~ Martin Luther King Jr.

A Valentines Day Appeal

As Valentine’s Day approaches, consider those who find it difficult to love either themselves or someone else due the pain they have experienced after abortion. You can help someone experience God's healing love this Valentine's Day by giving to Rachel's Vineyard.

Rachel’s Vineyard Ministries is a non-profit organization. We are able to minister to those hurting after abortion through your contributions and prayers. We offer thanks and gratitude for all those who have supported Rachel's Vineyard this past year.

United in Prayer

Please keep the Mason family in your prayers. The Mason's run RV retreats with their beautiful team in Arizona. Lou recently lost a brother in a car accident. We pray for peace and strength during this difficult time.

Please pray for the repose of Arlon's soul. Arlon was the father of Jeanne Krieg, our dear friend who produced the video "Door to Hope" about Rachel's Vineyard.

Please keep Sam Ranelli's nephew in your prayers as he recovers from surgery. Sam is our amazing IT guy, who helps keep our websites up and running! We pray for continued healing and recovery for his nephew.
